Milam-Areans Bazooka Rockets Foun

Quick thinking by a McLennan County probation officer averted what could have been a tragedy in downtown Waco. While browsing through the Downtown Flea Market he spotted two World War II bazooka rockets on a store counter. One of the rockets was exploded at Fort Hood and the other disarmed for a display. The 22-inch rockets had been painted red, green and gold.

Wormy Thief Sought

Bell County deputies Thursday were investigating a "slippery situation" in connection with the reported theft of 2,000 worms from a worm farm at Stillhouse Hollow Lake. The worms, valued at more than $200 were taken from worm beds at the home of Roy Bounds, a deputy said.

School Construction Begins

Last Monday at Thorndale was a happy one for school officials and patrons as construction on a band hall and an elementary school building finally started. Plans call for the building to be ready for the 1978-79 school year. A bond issue was recently passed for financing the construction.

Annexation Vote Examined

Is It A Step Back For Cameron?

A step back for Cameron? That is what one city official and a council woman said Friday about the vote to reject an ordinance annexing 380 acres to the city limits at Tuesday's council meeting.

Tuesday, Councilmen Lincoln Mondrik, Dale Smith and Tommy Corley voted to reject annexation, Councilwoman Jan Luecke voted for the measure, and Councilman Ernest Moore abstained.

A poll by The Herald brought comments from council members and the director of the Community Development Agency, with some question raised about a petition presented Tuesday that affected the vote.

The petition was signed by residents of the Boedeker Addition, one of the areas included in the proposal, and included a majority not in favor. Mayor Lawrence Zott said the petition was a surprise to him, that he had not seen it or heard of it before the meeting.

Smith said the petition influenced his vote, but he said he had understood when he voted for annexation at the first meeting of the ordinance in July that the residents there were in favor of the measure. He said he saw the petition three weeks before the meeting and made up his mind then, not on Tuesday night.

Smith said the only way councilmen can know what the people want is for them to let their opinions be known. He said few people showed up at the public hearing in July.

Moore said he felt the vote was "being pushed through too fast," and he hadn't seen the petition beforehand. He said he wondered what the people who signed the petition had been told to get them to sign. "They could have been told anything," he said.

Moore added that he abstained because he felt the council needed more time to study the ordinance, and at that point he felt he "couldn't honestly vote on it." He also said some of the people who had signed the petition came in later and told him they were for annexation.

Corley said he voted against annexation both times it came up, because he feels like the city has a lot of problems to take care of before it takes on more problems. "We have areas now that we are not servicing, and we need to take care of these before expansion," Corley added.

Jan Luecke said she felt like it was a "step back for Cameron," and that the vote was "for selfish reasons rather than for civic interests." She said a great deal of time and effort had gone into the annexation ordinance on the part of the Planning Commission and other forward-thinking civic leaders.

"It was a good plan, one that we could handle by providing services in a reasonable time for additional growth. It was a loss for people in the Boedeker Addition because of the health

Library Friends Drive Lags

Cameron Friends of the Library reports that its membership drive is "really lagging," with only $700 collected so far while the organization hoped for a minimum of $1500.

Friends gives the library $1200 a year out of its membership funds, and this is used for extras that library funds do not cover.

Mrs. Perry Holder, Friends chairman, said reminders are going out to former members who received pledge cards in the mail, and to new prospects. Anyone who wishes to join Friends may get details at the library or from Mrs. Holder.

She urged all those who have been contacted by Friends to send in their membership checks as soon as possible.

One-Car Mishap Injures Driver

Robert Selgelid, 24, of Minerva is reported in satisfactory condition at St. Edward Hospital in Cameron after he was injured in a one car accident shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday.

Selgelid apparently lost control of his car, ran off the road and hit a culvert on Highway 77, a mile north of Minerva.

He was hospitalized with chest and leg injuries. The small sports car he was driving was extensively damaged in the mishap.

Folk Fete Dates Set

Dates for the 1978 Folk Fete were set for June 1-4 by the FF board of directors last week. Committee chairmen were also elected.

reat which exists with the use of septic tanks and lack of adequate fire protection because of the small water supply," she said. (The addition is serviced by a two-inch water line.)

"I think it is a delay," she said, "but don't believe it will be dropped. I feel sure the planning commission will come back with another annexation request."

Councilman Lincoln Mondrik was unavailable for comment.

A. W. McCullin, CDA director, also said he felt that the vote was a "step backwards," according to comment he has heard. He said the Agency is always asked about the city's goals when applying for improvement programs, and his agency had said the city had plans for expansion.

"This is going to have a definite effect," he said. "We'd given Shell Oil Co. reason to believe that the city was interested in development and enlargement to provide more growth."

One resident of the addition said at the July public hearing that the people there would like to have city services, that there was no sewer, streets and inadequate water for the 24 houses and four mobile homes. He said the hogs and septic tanks smelled and were health hazards, and that raw sewage runs down the streets after a heavy rain.

McCullin said he thinks the annexation question will be brought up at the October 10 meeting of the Planning Commission.

Race And Crime

By Alphonso Pinkney

Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Crime and Justice in America." In this article, Alphonso Pinkney, Professor of Sociology at Hunter College, City University of New York, discusses some of the factors involved in the high arrest rates among blacks and members of some other racial minorities. This series was written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Supplemental funding for this course was provided by the Center for Studies of Crime and Delinquency, National Institute of Mental Health.

RACE AND CRIME

We cannot expect an impartial system of criminal justice to exist in a society that practices various forms of oppression, one of the most blatant being the persecution of racial minorities. For social institutions and practices reflect the structure of the society within which they exist.

Nor can we expect that persecuted minorities would unhesitatingly support a system of law that has frequently been used to oppress them.

In the United States today, the laws aimed at regulating criminal behavior often interact with the racism of the society to maintain the oppression of racial minorities. Yet we expect members of minority groups to conform to those very laws and social practices designed to maintain their subjugation.

Real or imagined violation of these laws and customs brings forth police reactions, and people of color frequently find themselves entangled in a judicial system which many distrust because of its racism.

Such catch-phrases as "Crime in the streets," "law and order," and "war on crime" are most often used, however subtly, to refer to the behavior of racial minorities, especially black Americans, and to many of the policies designed to maintain their subordination. Both the public and those enforcing the law assume that blacks and other racial minorities are responsible for disproportionately high rates of criminal behavior.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS AND RACE

Yet such assumptions have long been challenged. As early as 1930 Thorsten Sellin, one of the nation's leading criminologists, questioned whether the real crime rate for blacks was higher than for whites. Although blacks appeared to be arrested, convicted and committed to penal institutions more frequently than whites, Sellin maintained that social factors distorted the rates.

Most contemporary studies, based on more rigorous data, show that blacks are more likely to be arrested, indicted, convicted and committed to institutions than whites who commit similar offenses. For example, the Federal Bureau of Prisons' records show that in 1972 the average prison sentence for members of racial minorities was 59 months, compared to 45 months for whites.

More specifically, minorities, convicted for income tax evasion received average sentences of 31 months, while whites convicted of the same offense received average sentences of 14 months.

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports indicate that in 1975 blacks and other racial minorities accounted for nearly one-fourth of all arrests while comprising only about 12 percent of the population. It should be emphasized that these arrests do not necessarily result in convictions.

With the exception of certain crimes against "morals" and public order, the data show that black Americans are arrested somewhere between three and four times more frequently than whites. For Native Americans, the rate is three times that of blacks and 10 times that of whites. Chinese and Japanese - Americans have lower rates, with the latter group being the only racial minority with a lower arrest rate than whites.

These criminal statistics -- no matter their validity -- influence law enforcement policy and practice in such a way as to discriminate against persons of color. "High crime areas" -- usually the inner city where most minority persons live -- generally receive the heaviest police deployment. But the "speedtrap" phenomenon applies to race as well as to traffic. If police are stationed in a given area, they will make more arrests, thus fulfilling the expectation that more crime will be committed in that area.

Age is another important factor in criminal statistics. Persons under 25 years of age accounted for nearly three-fifths of all criminal arrests in 1975, and the minority population is younger than the white. The median age of blacks, for example, is seven years younger than for whites.

Having noted the limitations of criminal statistics, it should be further emphasized that the arrest rates among racial minorities do not mean that these groups have inherently stronger criminal tendencies, for crime is a function of social factors, not race. The vast majority of members of racial minorities are law-abiding citizens.

OPPRESSION BY LAW

It would be nothing short of astounding if a group of people whose whole history in the United States includes centuries of slavery, calculated attempts at extermination, and other gross brutalities somehow managed to be more law-abiding than their oppressors. For no group of people is content to be relegated to a life of oppression, and in America, the law has historically served to maintain the oppression of people of color.

It was the law that institutionalized chattel slavery; that deprived Native Americans not only of their land but also of countless thousands of their lives, and that caused thousands of citizens of Japanese ancestry to be incarcerated in concentration camps without due process. The litany of legally initiated or endorsed outrages against racial minorities is vast.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND CRIME

One of the major forms of racial oppression in the United States is economic discrimination, which is most readily manifest in unemployment statistics. Black Americans, for example, have for decades experienced an unemployment rate at least twice that of whites. The official unemployment rate for blacks in 1975 was 14 per cent, compared with slightly more than 7 per cent for whites. For black teenagers (16 to 19 years of age) the situation is especially grim: at least 40 per cent are unemployed, compared to only 18 percent of white teenagers. It is in this age category that arrests for criminal offenses are greatest.

While there are few conclusive studies showing a direct correlation between unemployment and crime, law enforcement officials and criminologists are making the connection, especially for crimes against property -- burglary, larceny -- theft, and motor vehicle theft.

On February 25, 1975, for example, a "Wall Street Journal" article based on interviews throughout the country concluded that "the consensus (among criminologists and law enforcement personnel) is that the link between crime and economics is far more than theory." Both the executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and an official of the Federal Bureau of Prisons support such a conclusion.

Unemployment is but one form of oppression contributing to the arrest rates of people of color. Many other social factors must be taken into account. The mere fact of being racially visible increases the risk of becoming entangled in the criminal justice system. This stigma often leads to frustrations that are expressed in acts of aggression, often aimed at those of similar racial background.

DISCRIMINATORY JUSTICE

Furthermore, the oppression faced by members of racial minorities may prevent them from identifying with the society and the law. For example, nationwide surveys conducted for the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders found that two of the top 10 grievances among black Americans were "police practices" and "discriminatory administration of justice."

The criminal justice system itself, characterized by discretion at all levels from the arresting officer to the parole officer, is frequently manipulated to discriminate against them.

The high arrest rates among racial minorities also reflect the fact that legitimate means to achieve societal goals are often blocked by discrimination. Crime may therefore be seen by some as the only means available for achieving the symbols of success.

Furthermore, people of color are generally forced to live in areas of cities characterized by poverty, poor housing, and limited outlets for recreation. These conditions give rise to criminality and other forms of non-conforming behavior.

It is impossible to understand crime in America without a knowledge of the social conditions that often nurture and reward it.

For racial minorities, social institutions and practices operate to maintain their oppression, thereby leading some of them to commit acts that are considered to be criminal.

Since the connection between race and crime is caused by social factors, some of which have been enumerated, there is every reason to believe the conclusion of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice in 1967: "The Commission is of the view that if conditions of equal opportunity prevailed, the large differences now found between the Negro and white arrest rates would disappear."

The views expressed in COURSES BY NEWSPAPER are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the funding agencies, or the participating newspapers and colleges.

NEXT WEEK: Gertrude Ezorsky, Professor of Philosophy at Brooklyn College, City University of New York, discusses the philosophy of criminal law.

'Rush To Judgment'...

We invite officers and directors of Cameron Area Chamber of Commerce, Cameron Industrial Foundation, City Planning Commission and Community Development Agency to study the 3-1-1 annexation vote defeat in City Council last Tuesday. It reversed a 3-2 vote favoring annexation of approximately 380 adjacent acres last July.

Summarily junked without discussion was the work of the City Planning Commission, the complex process of clearing legalities for Council vote and the interests of residents within the city limits.

The issue was voted without referral to City Planning Commission for modification or re-evaluation, the purpose of this advisory group to the City Council.

A petition from Boedeker Addition was presented which had been seen in advance of the Council meeting but not by all councilmen and mayor, all of whom attended the session. A reversal of support for annexation apparently was evidenced in the balance of names in the petition for and against the issue.

The petition represented a legal redress for prospective residents and property owners who apparently thought city services would not justify incorporation into the city limits. Ambulance, fire and police services already are available by proximity to this area and others adjacent to city limits. Any newly incorporated areas are required by law to receive public services such as adequate sewerage and water systems within three years.

Chamber, industrial, City Planning and Community Development officers and directors might counsel with this Council to see what assurances are implicit in providing basic services to newly incorporated areas.

A summary judgment on a basic like annexation has bearing on such future proceedings, not just this particular incident.

This indeed was a "rush to judgment."

An Equal Blessing...

It is important to begin each day with new strength and courage. It is essential therefore that we as citizens of Cameron add new strength and encouragement to the residents of Cameron Nursing Home.

I am commending that you as clergymen who have parishioners in our home for your cooperation, in visiting the residents and offering words with a spiritual note of peace.

To citizens of the community of Cameron, we sincerely request your extreme effort in volunteering to give back these elderly citizens their self-respect and a more positive outlook on the years that they have remaining.

Some of the residents of Cameron Nursing Home have no families or friends to visit them, read, write letters, or just to sit and listen to their interesting and remarkable stories of their past.

It is a definite opportunity, in my opinion, for each party - to receive an equal blessing.

Comptroller Plans 'Friendly Visits' In Next 9 Months

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock alerted Texas businessmen Monday to begin looking for a friendly visit from a Comptroller's enforcement officer sometime during the next nine months.

He advises a friendly visit will be made to every business in Cameron and other area towns.

The Comptroller said that the enforcement officers from his 40 field offices will fan out across the state with the goal of offering personal assistance to each and every Texas business.

A testing of the canvassing program in July showed that 19 percent of taxpayers contacted required assistance or needed permits, he said.

"The theme of this project is taxpayer assistance," Bullock said. "We have found that in many instances only personal contact can eliminate errors that eventually prove costly both to the taxpayer and the Comptroller's Office."

He said his employees, armed with smiles and packages of taxpayer information, will be knocking on doors with the hopes of:

-- providing education to taxpayers;

-- making sure every business is properly permitted;

-- establishing personal lines of communication between taxpayers and the individual enforcement officer responsible for the area;

-- updating Comptroller's Office records;

-- making certain each taxpayer is filing returns and paying tax properly.

July's sample of 4,702 businesses showed that 97 were operating without needed permits, 766 had changed address or business name without notifying the Comptroller's Office and 37 were not paying tax properly, Bullock said.

"We hope to take care of every little problem on the spot, before it turns into a big problem," he said.

"Above all," Bullock added, "we want people to believe us when we say 'I'm from the Comptroller's Office and I'm here to help you.'"

Six Flags Sets Fall Weekend Schedule

Six Flags Over Texas has begun weekend-only operation for the fall season following a record breaking summer.

A total of 2,278,771 persons visited the Arlington theme park between mid-March and Labor Day, topping the old record for the same time period by more than 61,000 persons.

With Saturday and Sunday operation continuing through the end of November, General Manager Dan Howells said it is "entirely possible" that the park could set a new season's attendance mark by the time operation ends November 27. It would be six Flag's third consecutive record year. In 1976, some 2.4 million persons visited the entertainment center.

Howells said the fall season, with cooler temperatures and shorter waiting lines, has become a popular time for persons living within easy driving distance of the Metroplex to attend.

"In addition," he said "we are getting an increasingly large number of persons from the northern states and Canada who stop by the park on their way to their 'winter homes' in the Lower Rio Grande Valley."

Howells commented, "Our record attendance through Labor Day speaks well for the health of the state's tourist industry. Our parking lot surveys indicated very favorable out-of-state attendance trends."

During the fall season the park continues to open at 10 a.m. During September and October, Six Flags will close at midnight on Saturdays and 8 p.m. on Sundays. During November, closing will be at 8 p.m. on both days.

New Law OKs Moving Wreck Off Freeway

AUSTIN
A freeway is supposed to be just that: free. And when a wreck on the main lanes disrupts the free flow of traffic, it can mean big trouble. Usually lasting about 45 minutes, the disruption is dangerous and costly.

That's the reason for a change in the law and a change in public understanding of the law. Many drivers think one should not move vehicles involved in freeway accidents under any circumstances until police arrive.

A new state law, House Bill 368 allows the immediate moving of vehicles involved in accidents on the main lanes of the freeway to a point of safety, providing the vehicles can be moved safely.

The new law applies to freeways in population centers of 100,000 people or more. That includes central cities and adjacent incorporated cities and unincorporated urban districts.

Duck, Goose Seasons Open November 5

Duck and goose seasons in the eastern part of Texas open the same day this year -- November 5 -- and close Jan. 22, 1978.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Commissioners met August 31 to set migratory waterfowl seasons and established November 5 through January 22, 1978, as the season for light geese east of U. S. Hwy. 81. Both light and dark geese may be hunted from November 5 through December 14 and again from Dec. 22, 1977, through Jan. 22, 1978.

Bag and possession limits on geese remain the same as last year -- five in the bag and five in possession with the same limitations on the taking of dark geese.

In the eastern two-thirds of the state ducks and coots may be hunted November 5-27 and Dec. 22, 1977, through Jan. 22, 1978.

Bag and possession limits for ducks remain one to 10 birds based on the following 100-point-plus system:

Johnson Resigns As Rockdale Head Coach

Rockdale High School will lose its head coach at the end of the school year, or earlier if he can find another job.

Fred Johnson, RHS coach and athletic director, turned in his resignation Wednesday night to the school board which accepted it during a regular monthly meeting.

The resignation followed by one day a petition delivered to the school superintendent, Dr. Walter Vincent, by the Rockdale football team, who are the defending state champions.

The petition stated that the team felt it could no longer play football under the present coaching staff. It was signed by all 29 members of the Rockdale football team.

The team withdrew the petition late Tuesday and practiced Wednesday afternoon. Vincent had suspended football practice indefinitely after receiving the petition.

Johnson's resignation is effective at the end of the 1977-78 school year or the "earliest previous date that I find employment elsewhere." The statement thanked the school board and administration for support but added that the coach felt he was "no longer receiving the cooperation of the athletes."

Johnson's record at Rockdale, including the first three games of the 1977 season, was 39-3. In the four previous seasons he has been the head football coach, Rockdale won the AA state championship in 1976, was a AAA quarterfinalist in 1975, and was South Zone AAA champions in 1973.

Johnson, from Arlington, was named AA Coach of the Year last season.

School board president W. P. Hogan attributed Johnson's problem to traits that may well have led to his success:

"He may have a PR problem, Hogan said, "But he is a tough-minded coach -- the best we've ever had here; he is unbending, unyielding, and his rules of discipline are the law. I don't blame him for resigning here today. It's unfortunate for him that he turned down at least one excellent Class AAA offer last winter in order to stay here."

With cool weather coming, rattlers like this one we snapped coiled under a small cedar will be on the move and most of them will have stored up enough poison to inject you with to cause bad trouble. Pick up your doves, if you are dove hunting and knock one down, only after making sure you are the only one or thing about to go for that bird.

Statewide Hunting Outlook Mixed

AUSTIN

Hunting success this year, and so far it has been mostly dove hunting, has hinged on where you went and when you were there.

This seems to be the pattern for the upcoming season, but pre-season outlooks seem to favor the hunter who shoots game with feathers. A mid-September check with Texas Parks and Wildlife Department field personnel indicated big game production has been spotty; ground nesting bird production has been excellent.

-- Deer: Buck deer will have good antlers in most section of the state. During the early spring when antlers were being formed conditions were good. From now, until the season opens (November 12 in most counties), deer will be in good body condition only in areas that get rain.

Reports from the Panhandle and the Permian Basin indicate good production and range conditions. In the Hill Country where rain has been spotty deer conditions vary from pasture to pasture. In the northeastern third of the state deer conditions are reported as very good. On the Engeling Wildlife Management Area, 48 percent of the does had fawns, representing excellent production. Southeast Texas needs rain and while herds are increasing, body conditions may be poor in some areas.

South Texas deer ranges also need rain. In the Trans-Pecos, P&WD biologist Jack Kilpatrick says while the mule deer range is dry, there has been a good fawn crop, and conditions appear to be at least as good as last year.

-- Antelope: Herd conditions are fair to good in the Panhandle, Permian Basin and Trans-Pecos. Hunting is by permit issued by the department to landowners. The season opens on October 1. Chambers of Commerce nearest desired hunting areas are the best sources of finding a place to hunt.

-- Aoudad Sheep: Population is increasing, range conditions are good this year and there now is a two-week season beginning October 5 in several Panhandle counties. Hunting also is by permit and information is best obtained through Lubbock Chamber of Commerce or local game wardens.

-- Turkey: Texas has always had more wild turkeys than any other state and Horace Gore, P&WD statewide turkey project leader, reports that this may be one of the best turkey years on record. All sections of the state report excellent production.

-- Quail: As with turkey, biologists say we have had the best statewide quail production in years. Both the scaled quail range of West Texas and the bobwhite range of the eastern half of the state have many young quail on the ground.

-- Pheasants: Texas now has pheasant populations on the coast as well as in the Panhandle. In both areas nesting success has been good. Hailstorms have damaged some flocks in the Plainview area, but the overall hunting outlook is good.

-- Waterfowl: One biologist commented that anything said this year about waterfowl conditions would be true somewhere in Texas. Hunting success will depend upon both local conditions and what is going on farther up the flyway.

Blue-winged teal conditions do not look good on the upper coast but are better west of Houston. Teal conditions are reported excellent in the Panhandle with green winged teal being most abundant. Teal populations are reported skimpy in East Texas. General waterfowl conditions are good in the Panhandle with most playa lakes containing water. Many coastal areas need rain.

New Doctor Exchanges Irish Lilt For Drawl

It is a far cry from lilting Irish to Texas drawl, as a new Cameron doctor and his family are discovering these days.

The new doctor is Anthony O'Dwyer, who is on the staff at St. Edward Hospital, having arrived in the United States with his family in August.

The size of Cameron also contrasts with Dr. O'Dwyer's last town, that of Bantry in West Cork.

He interned in the isolated seaside city of 90,000, a business center for the local fishermen and farmers.

The 250-bed rural hospital's emergency room catered to such diverse conditions as serious injuries to native or foreign fishermen in their work to gastroenteritis of summer tourists.

Dr. O'Dwyer heard about Cameron from a group of Texas lawyers -- the Rural Doctors Group, Inc., who operate out of Austin and who tour the British Isles looking for doctors to come to rural towns in Texas. The doctor was much attracted to Cameron by the presence of the Irish sisters at St. Edward Hospital and knew he would be welcomed here.

Dr. O'Dwyer comes from a large family. His father is deceased and his mother 'is alive in Ireland at the age of 74 years. He has five sisters and four brothers.

Peter, the youngest, is a doctor in Delaware. He emigrated to the US in 1969 and is practicing as a family physician. Michael is an American citizen, happily married, and is a high school teacher in Boston.

Edward, the third brother is

in Ireland and has his masters in engineering from Yale University in the United States and practices as a consultant civil engineer. Joseph is the oldest brother of the clan and continues the family business at home in Ireland.

Dr. O'Dwyer started out as a dentist, practicing until 1972. He became interested in medicine after his younger brother became a doctor. Having saved enough money to put himself through medical school, he was able to keep his wife and two sons in reasonable comfort until he graduated. This was also greatly eased by the sale of the dental practice which employed three fulltime dentists.

He met his wife Helena at a party in London in 1963. She was an X-ray technician and they were married in July 1965.

Their sons are 11 and 10 and are now attending Cameron schools, both thoroughly enjoying their new life in Texas. They find school excitingly different, as their last school they attended numbered only 50 students and two teachers.

The new doctor's hobbies are flying, traveling, home decorating light classical music, conversation and photography.

He hopes to settle into Cameron and be of use to the Cameron community and gain the respect of the Americans as so many Irish immigrants have done before.

Servicemen

Navy Operations Specialist Second Class William J. Mewis, son of Mrs. M. H. Wimberly of Box 225, Milano, has departed for an extended deployment in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as crewmember aboard the destroyer USS Agerholm, homeported in San Diego. While deployed, his ship will operate as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

A graduate of Milano High School, he joined the Navy in September 1972.

Water Plan Reviews Extended

AUSTIN

The Texas Department of Water Resources (TDWR) has extended the review and comment period on draft planning documents for updating and ultimately amending the Texas Water Plan into January of next year it was announced Tuesday.

Last June, the Texas Water Development Board, predecessor agency of the TDWR, released a two-volume draft water planning document titled "Continuing Water Resources Planning and Development for Texas" and set a 90-day period for public review and comment.

During that 90-day period many comments, both written and verbal, have been received. However, numerous requests have been made for an extended time period for more detailed study of the Phase I planning documents, said Charles E. Nemir, Acting Executive Director of the Department.

At the close of the extended review and comment period, a determination will be made regarding public meetings on the draft planning documents.

Copies of the documents have been made available to individual citizens, members of the Legislature, river authorities, environmental groups and organizations involved in water supply and development.

Copies are still available from the Director of Planning, Texas Department of Water Resources, P. O. Box 13087 Austin, Texas 78711

GAUSE NOTES

By Mrs. Wanda Lee
In mentioning the Gause students participating in school activities last week I gave the wrong Bonorden girl as high school cheerleader for the Junior Varsity and Andy Bonorden plays on the 8th grade football team in Hearne. Bill Blakely of Texas City visited last weekend with his mother, Mrs. Agnes Blakely and Pam. This past Sunday Mrs. Blakely had lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Henry.

Simmons and their other guests Mr. and Mrs. Mike Simmons and three daughters, Shannon, Nikki and Michael of Rockdale. Mrs. Roger (Lessie) Kingsley is now home recuperating from her recent gall bladder surgery. Mrs. Tommie Cass spent Saturday night in Milano with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gene Miller, Regina and Trent. Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lagrone of Cameron visited with Mrs. Cass.

The 4-H Club fund raising activities for the Mr. and Miss Milam County 4-H this past Saturday was a real success. This next Saturday the club will sponsor a car wash, so come bring your car to town and get it washed. Who knows, if you get your car washed that might bring on the much needed rain! Then the next Saturday, October 1 the club will sponsor another bake sale that morning. Then Saturday night the youngsters of the club and community will present a talent show at the Community Center beginning at 7:30 p.m. If there is a young-ter in town who is not in the 4-H club but would like to be in the talent show you are invited to participate. Just let either Wanda Coats or me know so we can get you on the program. All persons of the community are urged to attend this show and see how much the kids here in Gause have. They're something to be proud of. The W. M. U. met September 12 at the Baptist Church with 7 members present. After the opening prayer and minutes were read the lesson "Church Planting in the Philippines" was given by Mrs. A. D. Olinger, Mrs. Julia Lange,

Mrs. Mary Rains and Mrs. Jewel Alexander. The prayer calendar was given for the missionaries birthdays and prayer offered by Mrs. Lange. The Mary Hill Davis program for Home Missions was observed Wednesday night at the Gause Baptist Church with a program presented by Mrs. W. L. Ditto, chairman and members of the W.M. U. Mrs. Lola Williams, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Williams, and grandson, Grady Leonard, and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Matthews were in Anson, Texas last week where they attended the funeral of Lola's son-in-law, Linden Riley who passed away suddenly on September 9 after suffering a heart attack. He is survived by his wife Francis of Anson, a son and two grandchildren who live in Florida. The Parent Club of the Gause School met on Tuesday, September 13. Plans began for the annual Halloween Carnival, which will be held on Saturday, October 29. The club also voted to order a new slide for the students playground. Mrs. Bernice Longmire of Minerva visited during the weekend with her brother Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Timmons.
